OSU's College of Optometry tops in nation

Sixty years ago Ohio State University offered the nation's first four-year degree in optometry. Our College of Optometry is still No. 1 today.

Change Magazine recently published the top rating after polling deans of professional schools throughout the country. Ohio State's College of Optometry shares the honor with the University of Alabama, Indiana University and the University of California at Berkeley.

The college's success stems from quality personnel and good balance, says Optometry Dean Frederick W. Hebbard.

"The College of Optometry provides good teaching, innovative research and public service based on public need," Dean Hebbard said.

The college's Inner-City Optometry Clinic, on the Columbus Technical Institute campus, handles over 5,000 patients a year, while giving optometry students valuable experience.

Research, according to the dean, is another field which brings international recognition to the university. Prof. Richard M. Hill is working on a new design for contact lenses that would minimize lens interference with the oxygen consumption of the cornea. During the past year, Dr. Hill has discussed his research findings at meetings in France, Japan, New Zealand and Australia.

Regents Professor Glenn A. Fry is an example of the college's outstanding faculty, Dean Hebbard believes. Dr. Fry joined the university in 1934 and started optometry's Ph.D. program in physiological optics. Recipient of numerous awards in the field of optometric science, Dr. Fry recently was a U.S. delegate to the International Commission on Illumination in England and was a consultant to the French government on improving vision standards for the operation of automobiles.

College of Optometry alumni are further reflections of the college's success story.

"The goal of the college is to produce optometrists who not only serve their patients well, but also their communities as good citizens," Dean Hebbard said.

Three out of every four optometry graduates practice in Ohio. They have served as mayors, members of local boards of education and city councils, and in numerous other community-related organizations. Dr. John Wasylick of Sandusky is national president-elect of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Dr. H. Ward Ewalt of Pittsburgh serves as chairman of the OSU Alumni Advisory Board and Brig. Gen. Howard F. Haines (Ret.), Pass Christian, Miss., was the highest ranking optometrist to serve in the U.S. Army.

And, Dean Hebbard added, Ohio State optometry students exhibit a consistently high performance level on the National Board of Optometry examinations.

The Ohio State University Athletic Department, on behalf of its many thousands of loyal fans, pays special tribute today to the members of the 1935 Ohio State football team as they celebrate their 40th anniversary.

The '35 Buckeye team won seven of eight games and shared the Big Ten Championship with Minnesota, a team Ohio State did not meet during the season. Employing the famous "razzle dazzle" offense of Coach Francis Schmidt, Ohio State bewildered the opposition and thrilled the fans with a highly complex offense featuring reverses, spinners, double laterals, buck-laterals, end-around plays and often just plain power football. The 1935 Buckeyes scored 237 points, while holding the opposition to a meager 57.

Only the infamous game with Notre Dame, an 18-13 defeat, kept Ohio State from an unbeaten season.

Standout players on the '35 team were numerous and three, end Merle Wendt, guard Inwood Smith and center Gomer Jones, achieved All-American honors. The starting guard opposite Smith was Gust Zarnas, who became an All-American in 1937 and has been voted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

IN THE HUDDLE

By Steve Snapp

Twenty-four Ohio State seniors will be making their final home appearances today as the Buckeyes host Minnesota in the 1975 Ohio Stadium finale.

Whether you look at this departing class collectively or individually, it is a gathering of talented athletes that will long hold a special place in the hearts of the many OSU fans who have watched them play the past four years.

During that time this class, which started out just 16 strong, has accomplished much. It will undoubtedly be remembered as one of the finest groups ever to play for the Scarlet and Gray.

This collection of young men most assuredly has been successful. Going into this afternoon's meeting with the Gophers, the Buckeyes have won 38, lost four and tied one since this class enrolled in the fall of 1972. Obviously, one class does not make a team either a winner or a loser, but it can play an important role as this group has done. It also has played an important role against Big Ten opponents with the Buckeyes holding a 27-2-1 record the last four autumns. Included in that total are three consecutive conference co-championships and three Rose Bowl appearances in as many years. And with two more wins this year, it can become four Big Ten titles and four trips to Pasadena. That has never been done before in the history of the Big Ten and very likely will not be duplicated for many years to come, if ever.

Individually, there have been many, many honors, none greater or more deserving than Archie Griffin's winning of the Heisman Trophy a year ago. That honor is just one of many for Griffin, who has compiled a list of laurels much too long to repeat.

Arch has shared the spotlight willingly with his teammates, and Brian Baschnagel, Cornelius Greene, Tom Klaban, Ken Kuhn, Tim Fox, Scott Dannelley and Ted Smith have all received national acclaim at one time or another during their careers. As a matter of fact, every member of that group is a good bet for all-Big Ten honors this year. Some will receive much more.

But all that this class has accomplished has not been on the football field. It has distinguished itself, too, in the classroom.

Baschnagel, Kuhn, Fox and Pat Curto have been nominated for the Big Ten's all academic team this year, an honor that recognizes athletes with grade points of 3.00 or better.

Kuhn, Fox and Baschnagel, are holdovers from last year, when Brian also was named an Academic All-American. Just two weeks ago, Baschnagel was named as one of 11 college football seniors to receive the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame scholarship, a $1,000 stipend for graduate work. He is also a leading candidate for a Rhodes Scholarship.

There are, of course, many others that have not yet been mentioned. Woodrow Roach, who has played behind Archie and likely would have started at any other school, cannot be overlooked. Nor can Craig Cassady, who waited four years for an opportunity to start, and once he got it, became one of the top defensive halfbacks in the Big Ten. Tight end Larry Kain has also played well as a first year starter.

Then there are Lou Pietrini, Dave Mazeroski, Lou Willliott, Steve Koegel and Gary McCutcheon, reserves during their stay at OSU, but vitally important.

That goes, too, for walk-ons Randy McEndree, Todd Alles and Mike Keeton.

No question about it, they have indeed been a good class.

Specialist of the Week

TOM SKLADANY—KICKER—The curly haired junior from Pennsylvania literally kicked the cover off the ball last week as the Buckeyes dismantled Purdue 40-3. As a field goal kicker, he converted kicks of 59 and 40 yards, with the former (his first collegiate field goal) setting a Big Ten record. As a punter, he was equally spectacular, kicking four times for 226 yards, with a long of 68 and another of 60 yards. And as a kickoff man, he allowed just three of his 8 kicks to be returned.

Buck of the Week

MARK LANG—MIDDLE GUARD—After missing two weeks because of a knee injury, Mark returned to action at Illinois and responded with 10 tackles to tie for the team high against the Illini. One of those tackles by the Cincinnati sophomore dropped Illinois tailback Lonnie Perrin three yards behind the line of scrimmage and helped the Buckeyes take a 10-3 lead into the locker room at the half. Lang did not start against the Illini, but after regular Aaron Brown sustained a minor knee injury in the second quarter, he proved to be a capable replacement.

TONY DUNGY—QUARTERBACK—Leads the Big Ten in passing and total offense and is the Gophers' main offensive weapon. A junior, who is in his second year as a starter, the 6-1, 185 Dungy has thrown for 1,308 yards and 13 touchdowns this year. The latter is a school record for the Gopher signal caller, who is hitting 56.1 percent of his passes. Last week against Northwestern, he was on target 17 times in 25 tries, accounting for 191 yards and three touchdowns.

KEITH SIMONS—DEFENSIVE TACKLE—A 21-year old senior from Belleville, Mich. who has won three varsity letters and has started every game (42) since enrolling as a freshman. Elected captain of the Gophers, the first time in four years that Minnesota has had a season captain instead of game captains. A 6-4, 247-pounder, Simons is the Gophers' third leading tackler with 56 total participations and is within 8 of matching last year's total of 64.

Weaver Sees Balance As Key to OSU Program

Last weekend was a successful one as far as the Ohio State Athletic Department was concerned. The hockey team upset nationally ranked St. Louis, the football squad disposed easily of Illinois and the cross country team finished a solid sixth at the talent-rich Big Ten championships. On the women's side of the ledger, the volleyball, cross country and swimming teams all recorded triumphs.

It was the kind of weekend that an Athletic Director would find enjoyable, and Ed Weaver, who has held that position at Ohio State for the past five years, was no exception.

"Our goal at Ohio State is a program of over-all excellence," declared Weaver. "Last week is a pretty good indication that we are moving in the right direction."

Not that the Buckeye program isn't already a pretty good one. It is to be sure. Ohio State's tennis, fencing, diving and golf teams were among the best in the Big Ten a year ago and the men's volleyball and women's basketball and synchronized swimming squads distinguished themselves at national tournaments. It's just that Weaver is anxious for all 29 varsity teams (18 for men and 11 for women) to attain the same level of excellence.

"When you have this many varsity sports, it's difficult to get them all to the top of the heap," he said. "But that remains our goal. Eventually we would like to have each of our teams in the running for a Big Ten title. Where there is no conference showdown, we want to be competitive with the teams we play."

That objective would be easier with fewer varsity sports, but Weaver does not like to consider that possibility.

"I believe strongly in a broadly based program that offers the maximum number of students the opportunity to participate in intercollegiate athletics," he says. "We have such a program here and we intend to keep it going."

In fact, Weaver, who has been an athletic administrator for the past 18 years, can visualize the OSU program getting even larger.

"With the recent upsurge in women's athletics, it's possible that we will add some more sports in the upcoming years," he said. "We are proud of the role we have taken in women's sports and we want to continue to be a leader in that area."

The funding of a program the size of Ohio State's presents a constant challenge.

"Finances are always a problem in today's spiraling economy," Weaver admits. "But we are constantly looking for new ways to make money rather than cut back."

Monetary stability is important for another reason according to Weaver.

"We do not want to be a burden to the University," he points out. "Our aim is to be a firm supporter of the University foundation, and at the same time be able to stand on our own two feet.

J. E. Weaver, Athletic Director

"Our department is one of the few in the University family that has the capability to pay its own way and that is a nice feeling."

The largest source of revenue is, of course, football. With 87,000 fans packing Ohio Stadium six times a year and the Buckeyes more often than not playing to sellouts on the road, Ohio State has one of the few athletic departments in the country that is able to finish in the black financially.

"A good athletic department has to have a sound football foundation to build on and we are fortunate to have the best," he says. "But we don't want to put all the burden on football, it is too much to ask."

But in spite of the financial problems that have leaped to the forefront recently, Weaver believes that the future is bright for collegiate athletics.

"We have to find some answers to the money thing," he agrees, "but I feel certain that we will. The important thing is that we move ahead and continue to offer our students the best possible program. It is a very important part of their college education."

"There is one basic ingredient to make for a successful program — people. We are blessed with the finest here at Ohio State."

OHIO STATE SONGS

ACROSS THE FIELD

Fight that team across the field,
Show them Ohio's here,
Set the earth reverberating with a mighty cheer
Rah! Rah! Rah!
Hit them hard and see how they fall;
Never let that team get the ball,
Hail! Hail! the gang's all here,
So let's win that old conference now.

CARMEN OHIO

Oh! Come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship O-hi-o.

BUCKEYE BATTLE CRY

In old Ohio there's a team,
That's known thru-out the land;
Eleven warriors, brave and bold,
Whose fame will ever stand,
And when the ball goes over,
Our cheers will reach the sky,
Ohio Field will hear again
The Buckeye Battle Cry —

Drive! Drive on down the field,
Men of the scarlet and gray;
Don't let them thru that line,
We have to win this game today,
Come on, Ohio!
Smash thru to victory
We cheer you as we go:
Our honor defend
So we'll fight to the end for O Hi o.

OSU FOOTBALL COACHES

"Whenever you lose a good assistant coach, you must replace him with an assistant who is just as good," WOODY HAYES

Coach Woody Hayes has exercised the above philosophy throughout his coaching career. He believes that the nine assistants who now make up the Buckeye coaching staff are among the finest in college football and one of the chief reasons that Ohio State has enjoyed such success over the years.

Let's meet them:

RALPH STAUB coaches the offensive ends and tackles and is the recruiting coordinator for the Buckeyes. A 1952 graduate of Cincinnati, Ralph joined the OSU staff in 1970.

GEORGE CHAUMP works with the quarterbacks and wide receivers. He has one of the keenest football minds on the staff and has been an offensive innovator since joining the staff in 1968.

MICKEY JACKSON is in his second year with the Buckeyes. A 1968 graduate of Marshall, he joined the OSU ranks last year as offensive back-field coach.

ALEX GIBBS is the newest member of the Ohio State staff, having joined the Buckeyes last March as offensive guard and center coach. Alex, a graduate of Davidson College, was an assistant at West Virginia before coming to OSU.

GEORGE HILL has been defensive coordinator at Ohio State since he joined the Buckeye staff in 1971. In addition to overseeing the defense, Hill also coaches the linebackers. Under Hill, the OSU defense has become one of the best in the country.

ESCO SARKKINEN is the veteran of the Ohio State staff. The Buckeyes' defensive end coach, Sark joined the Buckeyes in 1946 as end coach for Paul Bixler. Sark is a 1939 OSU grad, earning All-American football honors as a senior.

RICHARD WALKER coaches the defensive back-field for the Buckeyes. He has been at Ohio State since 1969 and is responsible for recruiting in the Cleveland area.

CHUCK CLAUSEN joined the OSU staff in 1971 as defensive tackle coach. A graduate of New Mexico, he is responsible for recruiting along the eastern seaboard.

JOHN MUMMEY serves as varsity reserve and weight coach for the Buckeyes. He joined the staff in 1969 as freshman coach after a two year stay as head coach at Painesville Harvey High.

Captain,

Scholar,

Iron Man . . .

That's Keith Simons

The past two years have seen game captains appointed each week for Minnesota contests. But this year coach Cal Stoll decided to return to the former ways and have the team select its own leader.

When the voting was finished at the end of last season, results showed little need of a formal vote. Senior-to-be defensive tackle Keith Simons was the unanimous choice on all but one ballot . . . his own.

A natural born leader, but a quiet leader in every sense of the word, Keith this afternoon will be starting game number 43 since the day he stepped on campus. That's 43 consecutive games, and if the good Lord's willin' and he stays healthy, old "Iron Man" may accomplish something no other college player has done in modern days . . . start all scheduled games during his undergraduate career (44).

"Naturally that is a goal I started out with this season," says Simons, "but there was more, a lot more. For one thing my fellow seniors and I want badly to go out winners. We have had our ups and downs, but for the most part the entire college football and academic experience is something none of us would trade for anything else. We only have two games left to do our thing, and you can bet all of us will give it a full go."

Three weeks ago Simons was singled out as the Big Ten defensive player of the week for his outstanding performance in leading Minnesota 31-7 over Iowa at Iowa City.

Not known as a holler guy, Keith gets his message across in different ways to his fellow players. "I've seen him throw a look at a teammate that did a whole lot more than if Keith would have yelled at him and told him to shape up," says defensive line coach Norm Parker. "His teammates know he is big, and they know that if provoked enough he can become one mean individual. So a hard, cross look has made more than one player snap to and get it all together in a hurry."

Keith hails from Belleville, Michigan, a small community located almost in the shadow of famed Michigan Stadium, home of the Wolverines.

"I guess growing up so close to the University of Michigan I decided long ago I would rather go away to school," Simons says today. "I have never for a moment regretted my decision to attend Minnesota."

"Coach Stoll, my teammates, friends I have made on campus and in the community . . . all have combined to make my college days the best anyone could ask for. I consider myself a very fortunate individual. Now all I need to complete my dreams is to go out a winner in the final year for us seniors."

Keith's classroom major is a plan designed to qualify him as a recreation director for a community. He has carried a B average since the day he stepped on campus. "A lot of smaller cities and towns throughout the country are hiring men to develop and coordinate their recreation programs, something I really would like to get into," says Simons. "I got my first practical experience two years ago establishing a summer wrestling program at Luxton Park in Minneapolis."

Wrestling is another sport where Keith excelled in high school when he reached the state finals in Michigan as a senior. He still holds the prep record there for consecutive pins in dual meets.

A scholar, leader, gentleman and fierce competitor; some kind of combination to beat. Minnesota is the more fortunate to have a man of this caliber on the field this afternoon. Let's just hope two things: that he can stay healthy and finally gain the post-season recognition long overdue for the contributions he has made to Gopher football.

As coach Stoll has already stated: "If Simons isn't voted to the All-Big Ten and All-American teams this year, a major crime will have been committed."

OSU salutes Ohio's journalists

Ohio State University, an outstanding news media training ground for 60 years, pays tribute today to the journalism profession.

Officers and trustees of the Ohio Newspaper Association and Ohio Association of Broadcasters are our special guests along with 1930 Ohio State graduate Milton Caniff, creator of comic strips "Steve Canyon" and "Terry and the Pirates;" 1913 graduate Lewis Morrill, former University of Minnesota president, and radio commentator Lowell Thomas.

Impact of many of Ohio State's 3,000 journalism graduates is felt from London to New Delhi, from New York to Los Angeles—and in countless Ohio communities, large and small.

This steady flow of talent comes from the School of Journalism and its 40,000 circulation student newspaper, the Lantern; from Ohio State's Telecommunications Center in the Center for Tomorrow and from the Department of Communications in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

It is impossible, of course, to trace the varied journalism careers of all our graduates. But here is a sample compiled by Journalism Director William Hall and his staff.

Outstanding alumni in Ohio

Let's look first at Ohio State's journalism graduates in Columbus. Charles Egger is editor and Jack Keller manager editor of the Citizen-Journal. Reporting from the Statehouse are James Ripley and Dean Schott of Scripps-Howard Newspapers and Robert Caldwell of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Michael Lorz is manager of communications for Battelle Memorial Institute. Fran Ryan is on Columbus City Council.

In Dayton, William Worth is manager editor of the Journal-Herald and Sue Reisinger is assistant city editor of the Daily News.

Gordon Dix is president of the Defiance Crescent-News. David Rowley is vice president of the Ashtabula Star-Beacon. On the Toledo Blade staff is assistant managing editor Homer Brickey. Betsa Marsh edits the Canal Winchester Times. William Rogers is managing editor of the Newark Advocate.

"Woody Hayes and the 100-Yard War" was written by 1936 graduate Jerry Brondfield, editor of Scholastic Publications.

From the entertainment world are Broadway lyricist Lee Adams, columnist Earl Wilson and Jerome Lawrence, noted journalist, playwright and author.

Heading news organizations hosted today by Ohio State University are William A. Ott (left), vice president and general manager of the Akron Beacon Journal and president of the Ohio Newspaper Assn., and Stephen T. Joos, president-general manager of XIZE Radio, Springfield, and president of the Ohio Association of Broadcasters.

MCQ limestone has been used in a multitude of projects since Ohio Stadium was constructed. From driveways and patios to expressways and major commercial buildings, the list includes the Ohio Bell Building, the State Office Tower and the new Capitol Parking Garage.

Limestone from MCQ is helping Central Ohio grow. For proof, just look around!

Golfer—Businessman—Humanitarian

By kaye w. kessler
Columbus Citizen-Journal

In something less than half his tender 35 years, Jack William Nicklaus has achieved universal acclaim as the GREATEST GOLFER in the game today, if not all time.

In a considerably shorter span this Columbus, O., native son has proved himself a giant in the business world of land development, clothing and automotive.

More recently his genius has spilled into the profession of golf course architecture where his ample talents are exploding around the world, none more proudly or prominently perhaps than the monument to his late beloved father, the Memorial Course at Muirfield Village just 15 miles northwest of his former Upper Arlington home.

What should NOT be as foreign to his multitude of friends as it probably is, is the philanthropic side of the gentle, generous Golden Bear and his charming wife, Barbara, particularly where it concerns Ohio State University (where their courtship began) and the OSU Development Fund.

Certainly legendary are Nicklaus' golfing exploits which blossomed in junior competition in Columbus tournament circles, matured immensely as an undergraduate NCAA and Big Ten champion at Ohio State in 1961, then exploded internationally when he turned professional in 1962.

Nicklaus won two U.S. Amateur titles before capturing the 1962 U.S. Open and 14 years later has capped what he considers "my best year ever" as testimony that his star is not waning. He did not measure it nearly as much by the $298,149 which made him the PGA's official dollar champion as much as he did by garnering his 16th "major" title with the PGA triumph in Akron to go with four other tour wins and his sixth Australian Open title.

Most staggering statistic supporting Nicklaus as the premier pressure player is his performance in the 56 "majors" (U.S. and British Opens, PGA and Masters) since turning pro in 1962. He's finished first, second or third 32 of the 56 times with 14 wins, 11 seconds and seven thirds.

What Jack Nicklaus has done for Ohio State University, however, is equally virtuous and noteworthy. Just consider some of the following.

- THE ROBERT K. BARTON Memorial Fund in the name of his closest friend, a 1961 OSU Law School graduate who was killed in a small plane crash in 1966 as he was flying to watch Jack play in the Masters. It was because of Bob Barton that Nicklaus joined forces with Children's Hospital and the Dispatch Charities to inaugurate the famed Columbus Pro-Am that quickly became the finest one-day golf tournament in existence. Nicklaus took his portion of the charity pro-am proceeds and put them in the Barton Fund from 1965 through 1974, a total of $96,000 placed in it either through pro-am proceeds, from Barb and Jack, personally, or for both of them joining the Ohio State University President's Club.

- THE L. CHARLES NICKLAUS Golf Scholarship in memory of his devoted dad, a former OSU athlete and graduate who died Feb. 19, 1970 after molding Jack's career. This scholarship earmarked for a worthy student from Southwestern Ohio was established in Charlie's name Feb. 1, 1974 with a private gift from Jack, who donated his entire winner's check from the Ohio-Kings Island Open to charity.

- THE EDGAR T. WOLFE Jr.-Chick Evans Scholarship, established this spring in memory of the editor of the Columbus Dispatch killed in a January plane crash in Washington. With more than $96,000 in the Barton Fund, Jack Nicklaus (left) chats with former Ohio State University President Novice G. Fawcett prior to receiving a Doctor of Athletic Arts from OSU in 1972.

Nicklaus earmarked $20,000 from Pro-Am X held in August at Muirfield Memorial for the Chick Evans Caddy Scholarship Fund at Ohio State in Wolfe's name.

Nicklaus, who received a Doctor of Athletic Arts degree along with track immortal Jesse Owens in 1972 from Ohio State, became personally involved with his school in 1971 when he accepted the national chairmanship for the University Activities Center Fund Drive.

The Activities Center to include abundant intramural facilities in addition to an Olympic-sized swimming pool and diving bay, is nearing completion thanks to the more than $10 million raised in three years of Nicklaus' fund-raising campaign, more than half of which came directly from private donations by organizations introduced by Jack, working through the Development Fund of the O.S.U. Development Office.

Most appreciative of Nicklaus' efforts is the Development Fund's Herb Lape, who noted,

"Jack has been most supportive of the University in both time and effort. He has always been available when we have needed him and he has opened many doors for us that we could not have opened alone.

"I can remember one time in particular when he took time out to visit with us at his own expense at Naples, Fla., when we were entertaining a key donor for our Activities Center project. His presence made the entire evening and it was most generous of him to take the time with us."

To his own deep regret, Nicklaus does not have enough time for OSU, particularly its football, because the team has no greater fan. He and wife Barb have seen only the Iowa game this fall, but Nicklaus is so knowledgeable that he knew every player on the squad, even the interior linemen, and now looks forward to catching the Buckeyes "live" in the bowl game.

It is not just the OSU athletic program, however, that has benefited from the benevolence of Jack William Nicklaus, it is the entire university as well as the community. That will become even more apparent in the near future as Muirfield becomes a regular stop on the PGA tour.

Retired from two university presidencies, today Morrill lives in Upper Arlington with his wife, Freda.

As secretary of the Alumni Association, Morrill participated in groundbreaking ceremonies for Ohio Stadium in 1921.

Lew Morrill, the “right man”

Fred B. Snyder, former president of the University of Minnesota Board of Regents, once said J. Lewis (Lew) Morrill was “exactly the right man in the right place at the right time.”

He may have been, but it was more than luck that raised Morrill from elevator boy for a Marion, O., dry goods store to Ohio State’s first vice president in 1932, president first of the University of Wyoming in 1942 and then the University of Minnesota in 1945.

Ohio State is honored today to have Morrill and his wife, Freda, now living in retirement in Upper Arlington, return as special guests at today’s Ohio State-Minnesota football game.

As Ohio State alumni secretary, Morrill participated in ground-breaking ceremonies at Ohio Stadium 54 years ago. A 1913 Ohio State graduate, he was legislative correspondent and then city editor of the Cleveland Press before coming back to his alma mater.

Before leaving for the presidency of the University of Wyoming, Morrill’s Ohio State colleagues praised him as “a public servant without languor or weakness in his spirit, unafraid of truth and undaunted by the clash of opinion.”

He holds 15 honorary degrees, including an L.L.D. from Ohio State in 1945. During his career he headed the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, American Council on Education and the Association of American Universities.

BUCKEYE BASKETBALL SQUAD SET TO OPEN SEASON

CRAIG TAYLOR

Basketball season is just around the corner and OSU Coach Fred Taylor views his 18th Buckeye team with a decided note of optimism.

"We have had a good pre-season practice," he says. "We have worked hard and accomplished a lot. We won't be a big team but we will have good quickness and that should help us on offense and defense. We expect to cause a lot of turnovers and force other teams out of their patterns."

Ohio State opens its season Nov. 29 at Butler with three starters and seven of the top 11 players from last year returning. The three returning regulars are center Craig Taylor and guards Larry Bolden and Mark Bayless. Top reserves from last year include guards Jud Wood and Terry Burris and center Clance Hammond. Transfer Mike Daugherty is certain to help at guard.

Freshmen candidates include three forwards, Fred Poole, Rick Smith and Bruce Yance and center Bill Lindeman.

Craig Taylor, last year's leading rebounder, is headed for a fine year at center. The 6-10 senior from Springfield is fully recovered from the knee problems that handicapped him much of last season.

With Bolden, Bayless, Wood, Daugherty and Shields available at guard, Ohio State figures to be extremely strong in the backcourt. Bolden, starting his third year as a regular, averaged 16.0 points a game last year and Bayless 8.8.

There will be some new faces at forward, since the four top corner men from last year have departed. The Buckeyes are not without promising candidates, however, Terry Burris and Clance Hammond lettered last year, while two freshmen, Fred Poole and Rick Smith, have been impressive in early drills.

The Buckeyes first home game is Saturday, December 13 with Vermont. A January 3rd game with Indiana launches the Big Ten season for the Buckeyes.

ARCHIE'S STREAK AT 30

Archie Griffin rips off a big gainer against Wisconsin earlier this year. Arch tallied 107 yards against the Badgers on 15 carries.

Tailback Archie Griffin goes into today's game with Minnesota as college football's all-time leading rusher. The remarkable Ohio State senior has rushed for 5,007 yards during his career and has rushed for 100 or more yards in 30 consecutive regular-season games.

Ironically, Griffin's 100-yard streak began against Minnesota in 1972. Arch rambled for 129 yards that day as the Buckeyes opened the season by defeating the Gophers 56-7. No one could have guessed it then, but it turned out to be the beginning of one of the greatest records in the history of college football.

Following is a game by game breakdown since that first 100-yard game.

Tell Her So With a Copy of the Exciting, New Novel

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SLAY A DRAGON!

That Romantic Comedy of College Football

by JOHN and MARJORIE STUART

ILLUSTRATED IN COLOR by MARJORIE STUART

FOOTBALL FANS!

If you remember when college meant football games, sorority girls, fraternity pranks and banana splits, or if you wish you did, then you won't want to miss this romantic comedy (based largely on true experiences).

Follow the nostalgic adventures of Susan Wheeler and Andy MacLeod as their romance becomes a legend of the campus. Those were the days when the coach was furious because the back tackled too hard! When the two most beautiful girls in the whole college schemed to LOSE a beauty contest! The Quarterback impressed his sweetheart by giving her a tall stack of thick reference books instead of flowers. A perfectly sane, normal freshman co-ed was scared to death that the upperclassmen would NOT paddle her?

The big scandal was pretty innocent by today's standards. Innocent, but a little confusing. A cute blonde shocked everyone when she ran across campus in her nightie and kissed the football hero. Boy did that make him mad! He swore she'd have to kiss him again — with her clothes on. But we are telling you too much. Buy the book and find out how it all happened.

A VERY REMARKABLE REPAIRMAN

"Have Phil rebuild your helmet so it will fit perfectly."

"Let Phil make a special pad to protect your sore rib."

"Phil can put in a special arch support in your shoes."

"See Phil to get one of those ankle weight straps."

The above have become familiar statements around Ohio State locker rooms the past 22 years as Buckeye coaches have developed greater and greater admiration for Phil Bennett, the Buckeyes' expert equipment repairman.

Actually "repairman" doesn't do Phil justice, for in addition to having the skill and dexterity to repair athletic equipment, Phil is an innovator. He can visualize a problem, usually brought about by an injury, and come up with some workable and highly satisfactory protective device which minimizes the likelihood of re-injury.

"You would be amazed how many times we go to Phil with a problem," Coach Woody Hayes said recently. "No matter how difficult, he always seems to be able to solve it."

Phil comes by his talent naturally. He grew up on Frambes Avenue, in the shadow of The Ohio State University and while going to school helped his father in the shoe repair business. By the time he had graduated from North High School, Phil had acquired considerable experience in the repair and re-conditioning of shoes.

Following school, he went to work with a dry cleaning establishment, where he learned to sew and mend fabrics. He became so proficient that he soon started a dry cleaning business of his own. He added a second shop and then a third, but when World War II broke out, it became virtually impossible to find experienced help and finally, in desperation, Phil was forced to sell his shops.

That set the stage for his career at Ohio State.

He was approached by the late Ernie Biggs about a position in the Ohio State Athletic Department as head equipment repairman.

Phil had no doubts about being able to do the job, but he did miss the personal satisfaction of owning a business and making it go.

"It wasn't any easy choice but I sure have enjoyed working for the Athletic Department," is the way Phil explains his decision.

Countless Ohio State athletes have benefitted from Phil's understanding of their problems and from his handiwork. Through his efforts numerous athletes have been able to participate in contests when it appeared they might be unable to see game action.

One of Phil's biggest headaches is football helmets.

"We never go through a season that we don't have trouble fitting at least one football headgear," explained Phil. "There isn't any reason to send the helmet back because the size is correct. The problem is in the shape of the athlete's head. I rebuild the interior of the headgear to fit exactly according to the head shape. It has to fit perfectly."

Phil also reconstructs football shoulder pads for lacrosse, mends and sews torn cloth (whether it is jerseys, pants or other equipment), designs special protective pads and makes blocking and tackling dummies. In his spare time, he still repairs shoes and even reconditions baseball gloves.

Perhaps the item that makes Phil the proudest is a special weighted spat, that fits over a basketball, football or baseball shoe. The weight of the spat can vary from two and one-half to five pounds. The spat is ideal for a rehabilitation program where a knee or ankle injury has occurred.

Phil worked with Ernie Biggs on the project and the spats are now carried by a national sporting goods manufacturer.

In this frantic age when skilled artisans are becoming harder and harder to find, Phil Bennett stands out.

He is indeed, a very remarkable repairman.
